Inez Griffith ends four education service decades

When Inez Griffith walks out of her classroom at Alisal School for the last time June 12 she will be concluding a 41-year career in public education.... but by no means will she be cutting the ties to a profession that has seen her devotion reach and inspire thousands of children.

Over the years, and that goes back to a little school in

Castroville, Inez has gathered materials that she has carefully catalogued as learning games. All are aimed at motivating primary level youngsters to spell, read, pronounce and write better. Her goal is to publish the myriad number of illustrated (by her students) booklets and original rhyming games.

While the hundreds of her teaching friends will miss that warm smile and reassuring demeanor, they can gain solace in the probability that their are thousands of youngsters across the state if not the nation who will someday benefit from the learning materials she has prepared.

A discussion with Inez Griffith is not only a review of every aspect of community life in Pleasanton in the 50s and 60s, but a recalling of the days when the elementary teacher was a friend to be remembered for the rest of one's days.

She has meticulously recorded the names, as well as the pictures of almost every student to pass through her classroom over the past decade.

Along the way she has put together a scrapbook of pictures of her first class of educationally handicapped (EH) students in 1966-67. It is entitled "Our Secret Pond" and recalls visits by that class to a pond up above Sunol Boulevard and behind Pleasanton Elementary.

With the turn of each page their comes another story, another memory to be treasured. Doubtlessly all will be shared when Inez and fellow Pleasanton district teacher Carl Brickley are feted at a reception set for May 29 at Castlewood Country Club.

Born at Comptche, which is 26 miles from both Ukiah and Mendocino in Northern California, Inez graduated from Mendocino High School and completed her preparation for elementary school teaching at San Jose State.

Her first class was a third grade at Castroville in 1934. Later, she taught art, first through third and upper grades.

While honing the skills that would someday bring her to a 25-year association with Pleasanton children, Inez met her husband-to-be, Chet. He became known for his work with thoroughbred horses and, for awhile in the early 50s, had a record-setting charge named "Sabu Rock," known by many who frequented the Alameda County Fairgrounds track between 1953 and 1956.

Chet, a horseman for much of his life, passed away last year.

In 1940, the Griffiths' moved to Laytonville where Inez taught "primary until 2 p.m., high school 'till 4 and music, arts and crafts and band, as well."

Inez also taught one year in a little one-room school at Sherwood, just outside of Willits. This was more than just a classroom challenge as the school was located 10 miles out and on Sherwood Mountain.

While teaching in that area, the Griffiths' lived on Ridgewood Ranch, where Seabiscuit, the renowned Kentucky Derby champion, was raised.

Inez and Chet came to Pleasanton in 1950, largely lured by the racing facilities at the County Fairgrounds."This was like the hub for other Northern California tracks such as Santa Rosa, Vallejo and Bay Meadows," Inez interjects.

Frank Lucas was her first superintendent in Pleasanton, he being followed as the city boomed into the 60s by Don Eddy, Ray Haskell and Rudy Gatti. In 1950, however, their was just Pleasanton Elementary and that tiny little high school out on Santa Rita called Amador.

Though she has been here 25 years, Inez is "only" number three on the seniority list, being preceeded by Olive Hanifen and Ione Arnold.

For a few minutes we go back to the scrapbooks and look over the names and pictures of her class of 50-51....Alice Ann DeTata, policeman Joe DeTata's sister, Paul Koze, Robert Macias, Mike Garden, LaWayne McDonald (her mother, Ruby, still cooks in the Alisal cafeteria), Joey Soto, Karen Cook, and Rose Lara, who's now married to Danny Colon of the district's maintenance staff.

We note Gerald DiLaura's name in the "Class of 53-54." The Wilfley and Dickenson children in the mid-50s. We move along to 1960-61 and note the names of Teddy Theodore, Randy Daughtrey and "that little rascal Mike Murphy, John's boy."Their is a special mention of Mike Strait, from her first class, who came back as a high school student to be her classroom aide. He made the files for her massive collection of materials and came each day for two years to help with the students.

Mrs. Grffith taught at Pleasanton Elementary from 1950 to 1958. She then moved to Alisal, back to Pleasanton for several years, to Camp Parks until they closed it down and then back to Alisal.

She had always wanted to teach educationally handicapped....she says the EH really means 'extra help'....and inaugurated the first such one in 1966-67 at Pleasanton Elementary.

The late Tom Hart told her at the time, "You've got to make a go of it (the EH class). The people are a little wary and they'll be watching how this program goes very closely.

"I've taught EH students ever since and wouldn't want to teach any others," Inez states as three bundles of energy come romping into the classroom seeking her guidance and reassurance.

She now has 13 EH students from grades 1-4.

She had planned to retire last year and devote the rest of her life to childrens' learning games. But with the illness of her husband and the commitment to the children, she elected to teach one last year.

So many wondrous things, if we keep real still, in our own secret place, on the high green hill

It is a brief poem that recalls the little pond, the secret pond, that she and her class of 1966-67 "discovered" behind Pleasanton Elementary.

In a way it reflects the attachment that Inez Griffith and her children, the thousands who have felt that special devotion, shared then and maintain till this day.

Livermore's fiesty director

Allen calls BART president liar

By RICK VOGT
Lesher News Bureau

OAKLAND—"I think Mr. Clark is a liar," said Bay Area Rapid Transit director Robert Allen of Livermore, demanding censure of district president Richard Clark.

Allen Thursday charged Oakland's Clark with falsely stating during administration committee budget sessions that State Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post had put a $56 million ceiling on BART's 1975-76 budget.

"No comment," was all Clark would say after a formal vote to censure him failed.

Five of the board's seven members abstained, including Clark. Allen and director John Glenn of Fremont voted in favor of censure.

Clark would not answer questions asked by fellow board members or reporters, telling them all to "read the minutes" of last Wednesday's budget meeting.

Allen brought the matter up at the meeting's end, telling other board members he was "deeply disturbed" about where Clark had obtained a $56 million budget ceiling figure used at the meeting.

BART's staff had proposed a $69 million outlay for next year.

Clark immediately asked Allen if he'd like to make a motion.

With that, Allen declared, "I move to censure the president of this board for dishonesty in telling members of this board that the legislatuve analyst put a lid of $56 million on the budget."

Glenn seconded the motion as other directors began asking questions.

Allen explained he talked to Post Wednesday and was told such a lid had never been put on BART spending by the analyst, who in the past has severely criticized BART operation and finances.

Analysts from Post's office are auditing BART, Allen told the board.

But Post told him it was "not in the scope of his authority" to limit BART spending, Allen added.

Post was in legislative hearings Thursday and could not be reached for comment by Lesher Newspapers reporters.

Director John Kirkwood of San Francisco told directors he intended to abstain from voting because, "It is inappropriate for a censure motion—totally nappropriate."

Allen later explained that he hadn't intended to make a censure motion, but only wanted some answers from Clark.

He said the board president had forced him into the action.

Glenn and director Nello Bianco of Richmond listened to tape recordings of the budget sessions following the Thursday board meeting.

Both said Clark, indeed, had declared that Post was holding BART to a $56 million outlay next year.

"In my view, Mr. Clark did mention the $56 million budget ceiling in quoting Mr. Post," said Bianco.

"The reason I question Mr. Clark's statement regarding Mr. Post is that in my experience it would be inconsistent with past experience," Bianco added.

Glenn stressed that he heard Clark use the $56 million figure "several times" on the tape of the budget meeting.

He further contended that the abstentions by the majority of the board shows that Clark's "credibility has been seriously damaged."

Oakland man killed in hang gliding accident

An Oakland man plunged to his death yesterday while attempting to hang glide from a ridge above Foothill Road down to a 40 - acre clearing adjacent to Muirwood Drive in Pleasanton.

The 21-year-old Oakland man was declared dead on arrival at Valley Memorial Hospital at about 12:50 yesterday. Exact cause of death was not released.

He was hang gliding with a fellow glider who was awaiting his turn to soar. He jumped off from the ridge with no apparent problem, and was gliding toward the open field when he suddenly went into a dive.

The man apparently made a sharp left turn right turn to avoid house tops when he crashed to the ground.

"It was a combination of winds and not enough room to turn," said Dennis Pimental, 30, of Danville, who was the man's companion.

"I saw him hit, and then I took off. It took me about three minutes to reach him," said Pimental. "He must have been doing 40 - 45 miles per hour when he hit."

Official cause of the accident has not been determined.

Pimental said his companion had been hang gliding for about five months, and had made a "couple dozen" successful flights from that same ridge before yesterday's fatal accident.

A similar hang gliding accident occurred only two weeks ago, with only minor injuries to the pilot when he hit the street on Fernwood Way, approximately only one block away from yesterday's fatal crash.

"They are coming over residential property and causing injury, and in this case death," said Walt McCloud, director of public safety for Pleasanton.

"To permit it to continue might make us legally liable if a similar accident happened in the future," said McCloud. "This may force us to prevent issue an ordinance to prevent them from flying in this area.

Sunol voters decide on school tax hike soon

On Tuesday, May 27, voters in Sunol will go to the polls to vote on a tax increase measure for Sunol Glen School. The school is asking for a tax hike of 43 cents, from $2.07 per $100 assessed valuation to $2.50, for 1975-76.

Superintendent-Principal George Bury has stated that defeat of the measure could result in discontinuation of library, nurse and cafeteria services as well as doubling up of classes in kindergarten, first and second grades.

In order to assure a continuation of the quality education offered Sunol Glen K-8 students, The Times strongly recommends that Sunol voters approve the measure next Tuesday.

County sets weekend talks to avert strike

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND - The Alameda County Board of Supervisors has scheduled a grueling series of executive sessions over the Memorial Day weekend in an effort to head off a threatened strike by county employees.

The board agreed Tuesday afternoon to extend the deadline for approval of the first reading of a Salary Ordinance from yesterday until next Thursday to provide an extra week for labor negotiations.

County labor leaders told the board Tuesday they were confident settlements could be peacefully reached if they were allowed more time but if the board insisted on sticking to the original May 22 deadline, they would "be buying a strike."

Supervisors hope the one-week extension will provide sufficient additional time.

Negotiators for the county and representatives of employee groups have been involved in intense talks for several weeks involving salary increases, benefits and other issues.

The supervisors will be meeting in executive session today at 11 a.m , and Saturday, Sunday and Monday at 10 a.m.

A little more to the left

The Dublin Chamber of Commerce will assume "Teen Power" operations this summer in its annual drive to find employment for Dublin and California High Schools students. Lori Laursen (pictured above arranging a doll display) got her job at Mary D's Arts and Crafts through the Chamber's efforts. When not arranging merchandise, she's dusting ("They call me 'Ms. 409' "), serving customers and stocking shelves. The Chamber will accept applications Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 1-5 p.m. in its 7996 Amador Valley Blvd. office. Students between 14 and 19 from the two high schools are eligible for the program, according to Chamber spokeswoman Nancy Feeley, who also is soliciting job openings from local businesses and households. More than 75 teenagers were placed in positions ranging from retail clerk to babysitter and gardener in last year's effort. The Chamber may be reached at 828-6200.

Smoking panel asks: Should they or shouldn't they?

PLEASANTON - A sub-committee composed of teachers, parents and students will develop and conduct a survey to determine the feelings of their peers on the subject of smoking areas on Amador school district campuses.

Teachers Linda Alexander and Kathy Ryan, students Art Brannan and Carolyn Twombly and parent Carl Walter will develop the survey. All faculty members at the four district schools, one-fourth of the students and 20 parents per parent (on the committee) will be surveyed to get some indication of feeling toward the legislation (SB 171, Gregorio).

The survey will be completed prior to and presented at the next meeting of the campus smoking area committee, scheduled for Tuesday, June 3 at the Pleasanton Elementary School library at 7:30 p.m.

Specifically, the committee is seeking answers to four questions;

1) What are the specifics of the law regarding purchase and use of tobacco by individuals under the age of 18?

2) What effect would permissive smoking have on the school district's fire insurance?

3) Would permissive smoking on campus encourage or discourage students in their decision regarding to start or not to start smoking?

4) Considering the amount of time and energy it takes to adequately enforce the present regulations, are the results worth it? Could this time be used more productively in other areas?

The overall committee, which held its initial meeting earlier this week at Pleasanton Elementary, is composed of five students, six teachers, 10 parents and four administrators.

The committee was organized to review the legislation (SB 171) which goes into effect Jan. 1, 1976. It states in part, Smoking or having tobacco on school premises, or while under the authority of school personnel, constitutes good cause for the suspension or expulsion of a pupil except as provided in this section.

In addition, the following has been added to the Education Code; The governing board of any school district maintaining a community college or high school may adopt rules and regulations permitting the smoking and possession of tobacco on the campks of a community college or high school or while under the authority of school personnel by pupils of the community college or high school; provided that such rules and regulations shall not permit students to smoke in any classroom or other enclosed facility which any student is required to occupy or which is customarily occupied by non-smoking students.

The governing board of any school district maintaining a high school shall take all steps it deems practical to discourage high school students from smoking.

Committee members are charged with reviewing the legislation and to explore the advantages and disadvantages of permitting smoking on high school campuses.

In that regard, a list of advantages and disadvantages was drawn up.

Some of the advantages listed by committee members were:

1) Suspensions often involve smoking and these would be eliminated when smoking is done in an authorized area. As matters stand, students flaunt the law and ultimately this leads to a critical and disobedient attitude toward other laws.

2) Patrolling smokers takes up the time of teachers which could be better used elsewhere.

3) Smoking is a crime against one's self primarily and so is an offense of which each one is responsible to himself

4) Setting up smoking areas would eliminate "sneak smokers" in non-legitimate areas such as bathrooms. It would also cut down on cutting and tardiness and eliminate the challenge of breaking the "no smoking" rule.

5) Complaints from neighbors of kids hanging out on their lawns, yards may be eliminated.

6) It could lessen negative feelings towards the administration and improve some smoking students (feelings) toward school...make them feel more priviledged.

7) The student who is smoking for status and to provoke attention or alienate the system will have to quit or find another reason to smoke.

Some of the disadvantages as worked up by panelists are: 1) It connotates adult acceptance. This may mean to the student that we are not concerned. We (adult community) want students to know that we are concerned. We do recognize their good and bad habits.

2) It would encourage young people to smoke and the smoking rate will increase. The resulting visibility will more easily lure impressionable non-smoking students into the smoking ranks. This could engender flack from parents for supporting or condoning the smoking habit.

3) Maintenance costs and capital costs to provide for smoking litter will be incurred. The campus could look cluttered with cigarette papers, etc.

4) Smoking materials other than tobacco (marijuana) will be more easily camouflaged.

5) Smoking impairs your learning behavior as well as those around you. The smoker is quickly identified, alienated by other students (because of the smell), and thus sits in a corner of the class by himself.

6) If school cannot enforce the no smoking rule now, how can smoking in a designated area be controlled, in regards that smokers will still use restrooms, etc.

7) It would develop a special place which is not necessarily supervised and alien to school activities.

Locals twirl tomorrow

The El Charro Drum, Bell and Baton Corps will have 35 entries at this weekend's U.S. Twirling Association competition at the College of Marin in Kentfield.

The 17 twirlers, 7 flag firls and 11 drum and bell members are under the direction of Deanna Gonzales, baton instructor, and Mary Gonzales, director of drum and bell corps.

Members of the El Charro group will stay overnight at the Holiday Inn near San Rafael. They have been practicing two hours a day for the past three weeks for this state-wide competition.

Solo performers for El Charro include Dandi Hicks, 13, an eighth grade student at Mendenhall in Livermore who has won three national championships, 9 solo state championships and two baton championships at the state meet. Also performing this weekend will be Dolly Hicks, 8, with one national and four state titles, and Dusty Hicks, 6, who has a first in state competition. The latter two attend Sonoma School.

All parks — except Shadow Cliffs — open this weekend

"Everything will be fully operational" for the Memorial Day weekend — except Shadow Cliffs Park — according to East Bay Regional Parks District spokesman Chris Nelson.

Shadow Cliffs was closed by Alameda County Health Department officials and the EBRPD May 13 following reported outbreaks of "swimmers' itch."

Officials first tried closing the swimming area, but were forced to shut down the entire park after swimmers refused to heed lifeguards' warnings.

Head lifeguards at the other district parks had refused to work in an apparent sympathy move with striking members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Local 2420.

The union has been on strike for nearly two-months, and head lifeguards walked out last weekend after talking to union representatives, according to Nelson, but went back "after hearing the other side of the story" from management.

The guards "had been terminated," Nelson added, but "the district's primary job is to save lives, so we reinstated them."

State and county health officials confirmed swimmers' itch — "schistosome dermatitis — from sample water snails taken earlier this week.

Eliminating the snails eliminates the source of the human infection, according to Dr. Robert Lane of the California Health Department. Parasites already in the water die within a few days, he added.

County health department spokesman Ed Howell expects the go-ahead today, and treatment to start by early next week.

But in the meantime, there'll be no swimming — or picnicking, hiking or fishing — in Shadow Cliffs this holiday weekend.

Howell and Nelson emphasize that other authorized EBRPD swimming areas have not recorded outbreaks of the itch and will be open. Del Valle reservoir is NOT a legal swimming area, they add.

City sets job crisis conference

LIVERMORE - At the suggestion of Councilwoman Helen Tirsell, the city council has designated the first week in June for a citywide Youth Job Crisis Conference.

The city staff will contact volunteer and service organizations in Livermore, including the Chamber of Commerce, schools, Livermore Area Recreation Park District and senior citizens, to ask their help in the week-long search for summer employment.

The plan envisioned by Tirsell would have the volunteers telephoning all valley businesses and ranches in an effort to uncover jobs available for teens during the summer.

Council took up the crisis conference idea after it cancelled the city's annual summer student program, which usually employs 26 local youths for three months.

The program, which costs $18,000, was taken out of Lovermore's budget on the recommendation of City Manager Bill Parness. Tight funds for the upcoming fiscal year were laid to blame.

A meeting to discuss the proposed week will be held at 10:30 a.m today at City Hall, 2250 First St., with representatives of the City of Livermore, Livermore Unified School District, LARPD and Chamber of Commerce.

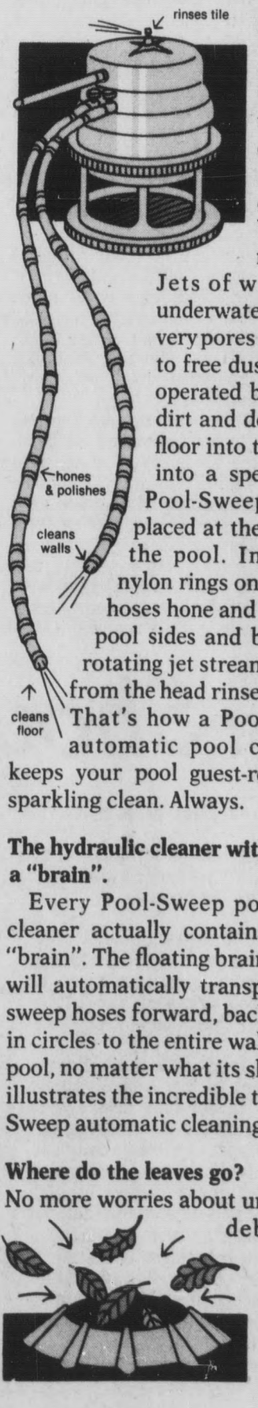
There's something miraculous about the way a Pool-Sweep® automatic pool cleaner cleans. And cleans.

Keeps your swimming pool sparkling clean 4 ways.
It's like magic the way a Pool-Sweep® automatic pool cleaner quietly works and works to keep the floor, walls and surface of your pool sparkling clean. Completely automatically. The Pool-Sweep pool cleaner is an ingenious invention manufactured exclusively by Arneson Products, Inc.

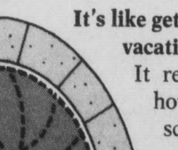


And it's remarkable how simply a Pool-Sweep automatic pool cleaner works. Filtered pool water under pressure operates it hydraulically ... frees you from the drudgery of hand scrubbing, sweeping or vacuuming your pool. For good.

Jets of water from two special underwater hoses penetrate to the very pores of the pool floor and walls to free dust and dirt. Sweep hoses, operated by water pressure, sweep dirt and debris from the walls and floor into the bottom main drain or into a specially developed Pool-Sweep leaf basket placed at the deep end of the pool. In addition, nylon rings on the sweep hoses hone and polish the pool sides and bottom. A rotating jet stream of water from the head rinses the tile. That's how a Pool-Sweep automatic pool cleaner keeps your pool guest-ready, sparkling clean. Always.

The hydraulic cleaner with a "brain".
Every Pool-Sweep pool cleaner actually contains a "brain". The floating brain unit will automatically transport the sweep hoses forward, backward and in circles to the entire wall and floor areas of your pool, no matter what its shape. The drawing above illustrates the incredible thoroughness of the Pool-Sweep automatic cleaning pattern.

Where do the leaves go?
No more worries about unsightly leaves and large debris. The Pool-Sweep cleaner coaxes them into an exclusive leaf basket placed over the main drain which can be emptied easily.



Pennies per day.
That's all it takes to keep a Pool-Sweep automatic pool cleaner cleaning and cleaning, year after year. It's like installing a dishwasher. Once it's in, you wouldn't be without it. And for the few pennies you spend, would you give up the convenience of a dishwasher? Never! That's exactly the way over 130,000 pool owners feel about their Pool-Sweep automatic pool cleaner today.

Programmed to work day or night.
Just the flick of a switch puts your Pool-Sweep automatic pool cleaner to work. Day or night. You can install a fully automatic timer to turn your Pool-Sweep on and off. So it can be set to work even while you're vacationing away from home. And you'll always come home to a sparkling clean pool.

It's like getting an extra 3-week vacation from work.
It really adds up. All the tiresome hours you spend each year hand-scrubbing, hand-sweeping and vacuuming your pool. If you're like most pool owners, this can add up to over three weeks' worth of hard work. Time you could well spend relaxing and enjoying your pool. That's what it's for!

VCSD sewer service boost spurs protest

Only two members of the public braved the high winds and competition of the Golden State Warrior televised playoff game to speak to the Valley Community Services District board of directors Tuesday night.

The occasion was the public hearing on the proposed 1975-76 budget, which included a $2 per month increase in the sewer service charge.

Not surprisingly, both VCSD residents — Carl McCauley of Corinne Street in San Ramon and Wayne Mastin of Whitlow Lane in Dublin — were against the proposed increase, as were two VCSD board members.

However, one of those — Ann Jolley — was on vacation, as was VCSD Director Chuck Ladner, who favored the sewer charge increase. The abscence of the two board members drew some uncomplimentary comments from Mastin and McCauley, who felt that such an important issue as a 53 per cent rise should have been voted on by the whole board.

Ron Hyde and Lila Euler both voted in favor in the nearly $2 million budget while Dick Fahey voted against it on the ground that he felt the $2 charge was "an extraordinary increase".

Mastin was the first to address the board and rambled on for nearly 45 minutes. He felt the board was "not informed" on the modern treatment of sewage.

"I don't think you understand where you are going with this sewage plant" said Mastin and added that he thought that the VCSD plant would be shut down by the federal government in favor of a more regional plant.

Euler responded by pointing out that regionalization in the valley is already scheduled and that the VCSD plant has been selected as the focal point.

Mastin's objection to the sewer service charge was simple. "These are hard times for a lot of people here in Dublin" he said.

McCauley agreed. "There has to be a limit somewhere" he said. "We have to use reason".

He was particularly angry about the absence of two directors. "I'm upset that only three board members are here. For something as important as this everyone should be here."

He conceded that if the directors were working on their other jobs that was a legitimate excuse. Both were one vacation.

Nonetheless Hyde and Euler agreed with VCSD Finance Director Newell Cummings that the immediate jump was necessary.

Referring to the proposed deficit already in the budget of nearly $60,000 that would increase if the sewer charges were not enforced, - Hyde commented "A $98,000 deficit scares the hell out of me". Euler, apparently taking into account Cummings' statement that by law the sewer program must not run at a deficit, added "I feel the raise is both justified and inevitable".

She also added that the board "shouldn't try to fool" the voters by delaying the charge, as Jolley and Fahey wished to do.

Fahey's main concern was that a "second effort" to cut back on staffing and financing of the sewer program had not been made by the staff. He didn't feel the staff was hiding anything but that another look should be taken.

If the board passed the budget, "the pressure would be off" he said and the staff would not have to search as hard for ways to save money.

The rest of the meeting was brief and to the point, highlighted only by Fahey's in absentia appointment as chairman of the Congress of Valley Agencies committee on the one-city valley concept.

Pete Stark doesn't know he's invited

One of the "honored guests" listed on a Sierra Club flyer, which is being circulated to publicize a party to raise funds to carry on the legal battle against Bill Apperson's proposed guest ranch, is not even aware of the event.

Congressman Pete Stark, who is listed as one of three honored guests for the May 31 wine and cheese party, will probably be in Washington, D.C. the day of the event, his aides Frank Kiefer and David Julian confirmed, and was not aware of the flyer.

"This probably was an error," Kiefer said. "It is our policy to stay out of local planning matters." The congressman has not been scheduled for that event, Julian added.

The other two "honored guests" are Alameda County Supervisor Tom Bates and David Brower, head of Friends of the Earth and former executive director of the Sierra Club.

The Sierra Club's suit against Apperson's plans to build a guest ranch on 1,300 acres of his 2,500-acre ranch claims the facility would have a severe adverse impact on the area. The next court date in that suit is July 18.

The awards were presented at the annual Boarding Mothers Tea sponsored by the East Bay Council of CHS auxiliaries as a "thank you" to the women who provide substitute mothering for children during times of family crisis, or while awaiting permanent adoptive placement.

"Children's Home Society is fortunate to have these remarkably dedicated people," said Richard Rikkers, director of the Golden Gate District of CHS. "Our only wish is that we had more families willing to open their homes to children of all ages needing foster care."

Information about becoming a foster parent may be obtained by calling the Children's Home Society office in Oakland.

Livermore Lab plans to spread the wealth

A program to spread practical, technical knowledge out from the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory to nearby energy-related industries will get underway July 1 with a $181,000 grant from the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA).

The project, which is headed by Louis Zevanove of the Electrical Engineering Department, will send approximately 150 technicians through classroom and "hands-on" courses involving such varied subjects as lasers, computers and microprocessors.

Dick Wasley of Mechanical Engineering and Stan Nielsen of Electrical Engineering are both aiding Zevanove in new project, which could give 150 technicians advanced courses in problems they deal with on a regular basis.

Wasley emphasized that the course is not designed to give the students something that they might use a year from now but knowledge they can take back and apply at their jobs right now.

Although ERDA is sponsoring the program and paying the Lab's end of it, public agencies or private industries that send people to take the courses must pay their salaries and per diem expeneses.

The idea of the project is to disseminate much of the highly valuable, non-classified information that Lab scientists have come up with while dealing with the forefront of modern technology. Often, however, that knowledge is never passed on to industry or government agencies that could use it and thus ERDA is sponsoring this pilot program.

Since ERDA is an energy organization, one of the conditions of the grant is that the knowledge must be used to help save energy.

Along those lines, Wasley indicated that the courses under consideration for the first offerings are microprocessors, vacuum technology, fastening and joining, and digital logic.

Presently, plans call for classes to run for approximately two weeks with 10-15 people in a class. Part of the course will deal with theory but much of the time will be spent in actual manipulation of the materials under discussion.

Wasley said that 10 classes are being considered for the first year but that none will begin until September. "We want to make sure it's a quality package" said Wasley.

Of course, to make it work, agencies must be willing to give up their employes for two weeks at full salary to take the courses and so the practical results of the classes will be important.

Wasley outlined a possible advantage that the Fastening and Joining class might offer to a technician from the state Department of Water Resources.

The technician might be having problems with cavitation — small holes that eventually expand — in turbine blades in a hydroelectric plant. To keep the blade intact, it is necessary to fill the holes. Now if the original blade was mild steel and the technician would like to fill it with stainless steel, the methods of attaching the filling to the original must be quite sophisticted.

The Lab feels that it can supply this kind of knowledge to technicians in all fields and save lots of money and time as a result.

Also the courses will be videotaped by the Lab's television center and eventually packaged and sent out to any organization that might want to use them.

"ERDA would encourage expansion" Wasley said, if the program is successful and added that "we'd sure like to see it".

To start off, though, Wasley anticipates that only local people will take the courses, and by local, he means from San Francisco to Sacramento.

Summing up, Wasley said that the main purpose of the program is "get the technology out into the public sector". There, it is hoped, it can help tide the country through the energy-short days that seem to be just around the corner.

Why must teachers swear at students?

In the widening debate over a "fundamentalist approach" to classroom education, there is evidence of something much more than parental concern for academic merits. Fathers, mothers, and yes, even teachers are beginning to express resistance to the "earthiness" that permeates so much of today's classroom scene. The "fundamentalist" campaign is, we suggest, not so much a desire to revive "the three r's" as it is a determination to rekindle belief in "the three m's" — morals, manners and maturity.

And it is because so many educators lack the latter quality that public schools seem at times to be devoid of a sense of morality, or even basic good manners. This is not a charge lightly made; but it is nonetheless the evidence of recent court tests, of teachers prepared to expound "liberal education" to the limit, and of a nation struggling to restore some "basic values."

We would avoid for the moment that argument over "removing God and creation from the textbooks," even though that is a point of lively discussion this week among those who oversee publication of all California school texts. It is sufficient that we stick to such questions as "Should teachers swear at the students?" That should be fundamental enough for any of us.

In just the last ten days this newspaper (and we presume the valley's other news media) has received signed complaints directed at teachers or coaches who "use foul language in front of young students." In two of those instances the complaint was levelled by another teacher or coach.

Experience has taught us that we dare not print even a signed letter from anyone making such a charge, for fear of leaving ourselves and the one making that complaint open to charges of slander and libel. Apparently, those who would offend others with their language or their temper tantrums are quick to defend their right to "free speech." But that does not discourage us from bringing the entire question into public focus.

We are not among those who contend that "morality is taught in the classroom." It begins, of course, in the home. But we will also argue that a preponderance of any child's "learning time" — and most particularly through the sensitive "learning years" — is spent in school. Even the best parents, if they are also hep, are going to admit that "a cool teacher" will win out anytime over a disagreeing Dad or a miffed Mom. We yield to the heroic influence of any professional, and rightfully so.

It is when teachers become something much less than "professional" in the conduct of their classes, or even in their personal habits, that we must begin to challenge their right to set society's standard.

Coaches who can only win the players' confidence by resorting to foul language; teachers who find it necessary to swap crude bodily references with a seventh grade girl; liberals who think it is "in" to challenge everything our society was built on — including respect for each other and our mores . . . these are the people who help set the mood, laying the foundation for "a new morality" that is, we are finding out, no morality at all.

We are aware that school boards and school superintendents are recluctant to pursue such complaints "because the courts would probably slap us down anyway," should the matter get that far. But that is a cop out, not an answer. The parents and teachers and young people who still believe in a resonable standard of behavior for "professional educators" are entitled to have their words heard, also.

The best place for that kind of exchange is the local school board meeting, in public or executive session. If the school boards choose to sidestep that responsibility, then they have no right to holler when the "fundamentalists" threaten to split the public school system right down the middle, simply because they have been offered no other course of action.

Kallam's comment...

What's in a room?

The brewing storm over "fundamental" schools or "progressive" schools will be noisy but inconclusive for one simple reason. Learning is not determined by the environment so much as by the relationship between the individual teacher and the individual student.

If a child really wants to learn, he will learn. He will learn whether he is forbidden to leave his desk without permission or whether he is allowed to do anything he wants. He will even learn if he is forbidden to learn if the drive is strong enough.

Certainly it will be slightly easier for him to learn in the atmosphere in which he feels most at home — which for some children is a very free-form situation and for others is very structrued.

And that is another important point. There will always be children who do not fit into the present fad in education. Some children may well require strict discipline; others might wilt under the same regimen.

And, of course, the teacher is as important as the child A child who wants to learn in a vague sort of manner can be inspired by a good teacher. Whether that teacher operates best in a structured or unstructured atmosphere depends on the teacher.

Again, there are teachers who like strict discipline in classes and there are those that don't. Some like the middle ground, but the point is this — you can't please all of the people all of the time.

You can't satisfy every parent in the district if you spank a child for minor disciplinary infractions. You can't make a child learn by giving him freedom. You can't make a good teacher by giving him a paddle.

Each person is an individual. Since we cannot build a school to satisfy each individual, we must do the best we can to allow him as many options as possible. If the expense is too great to do that (and it most likely is), then the teacher, child, or parent involved will simply have to adjust, as best he can, to the environment he faces.

In terms of learning, it comes down to motivation. If the teacher really wants to teach, the structure of his classroom is unimportant — he will find a way to communicate with his students.

If a child really wants to learn, he will learn, almost regardless of the surroundings.

If a parent really wants to help, he should instill the discipline and goals he wishes his child to possess at home. It is not now and never has been the responsiblity of the schools to teach the exact morality of each individual parent.

There should be options for all students so that it is possible for a child to attend the school of his and his parents' choice. That will cost money. If the people think it is important, they will have to pay for it, and even then there will be complaints.

There is no right answer.

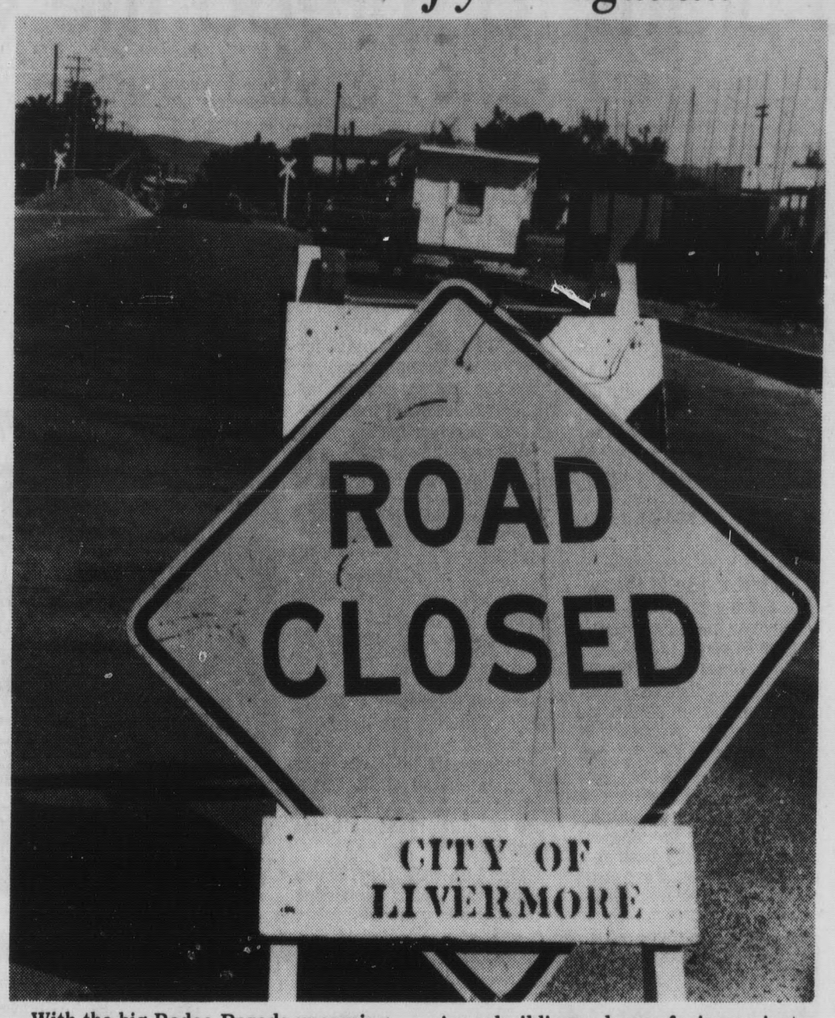
It's that time of year again...



With the big Rodeo Parade upcoming in Livermore and the gala Alameda County Fair Parade due to follow soon thereafter in Pleasanton, it was to be expected that the street departments of both those cities would schedule massive rebuilding and resurfacing projects in their respective downtown areas. But cheer up — it should all be neat and orderly again, right after the parade passes through.

Alternatives review

Parents in the Walnut Grove School attendance area are being asked to select one of three alternatives, or methods of education, for the 1975-76 school year.

The forms sent out to parents at the end of last week give a capsule description of each concept and the names of those teachers organizing the program. It is imperative that parents consider the alternatives and express their choice. Forms should be returned to Principal Anthony Huff by the end of the week.

In previous articles on this page we have taken looks at the Open Education (Alternative II) and Fundamentalist (Alternative III) concepts. Today, we'll review team teaching in open space, the method that is now in vogue at the school.

Huff reminds parents that if they don't make a choice, their child will automatically be placed in the team teaching alternative.

The method has been the basic instructional program at Walnut Grove since 1967, when the school was built.

We might interject at this point that Huff has received considerable unsolicited praise from not only parents but other persons in education for his working up the three alternatives for Walnut Grove. It is one of the few, if not the only, schools in the Bay Area to offer such an array. Huff and his staff are to be congratulated for their efforts in offering students and parents a choice. The Black Avenue school could certainly be dubbed the "we care school."

The team-teaching approach in education is to continue as in the past at WalnutGrove. The program is designed to introduce the appropriate materials and ideas in a relaxed atmosphere. The environment is child-oriented, according to the release sent home by Walnut Grove, but with reasonable limitations and encourages thinking, learning, creating, and behaving in socially acceptable ways.

The curriculum follows a definite progression, building on skills and abilities, in the areas of reading, spelling, handwriting, language, mathematics, history, science, art, music, literature, and physical education.

Perhaps the best reflections of this concept are found in the faces of the children, who seem to be . . . speaking generally . . . not only motivated but achieving to some degree beyond satisfactory.

Open Education classes will be housed in two pods with kindergarten through second grade in one pod and third through fifth in the other. The children learn in a "family grouping" with each child working at his own pace.

The pods would operate on an informal basis in method and structure, and will focus on personalized learning. They will resemble a workshop-type setting with a rich and changing environment of materials which can provide many opportunites for learning through practical experience. Students will be free to choose activities according to their particular learning style or preference. They will be expected to take increasing responsibility for their own learning.

The latter portion of the description for Open Education would probably bring them into the greatest conflict with supporters of the other two alternatives. Whether children, most of whom are 7 to 10 years of age, can take on such responsibilities and handle it consistently could be a cause of concern to parents.

Alternative III is the Fundamentalist concept, though supporters of this method are quick to point out they would prefer some other descriptive title . . . and want it known that the program is distinct from those identified with Livermore or the well-known Hoover School.

Classroom walls are a key to this concept, inasmuch as the program will have self-contained classrooms with one grade level per classroom. Classroom activities will be teacher directed and supervised.

In each aspect of this program, the student will be oriented as to exactly what is expected of him or her. The concept espouses "fair and consistent methods of handling behavioral problems" . . . to be developed according to common sense guidelines established by the staff and parents.

The program lists aspriorities, acquisition of basic academic skill in a sequential manner,establishment of good independent study habits, development of a quite and orderly classroom atmosphere and close communication with parents as to their child's progress and level of achievement.

That, in brief form then, is a review of the three alternatives. It is an opportunity for parents in the Walnut Grove area . . . and a process that other schools in the valley might well take a look at.

round the town

Who do you believe? After 20 years of Vietnam, Watergate and Standard Oil commercials, Mr. and Mrs America (Ms. and Mas. too) are finding it hard to keep the faith, baby.

Fortunately, we have the latest Roper Organization public opinion survey. And just in time. "Americans rate the believability of television higher than schools, local government, newspapers, the churches and the police." The survey was paid for by the television industry, as you might have guessed.

The Roper unbiased survey found that, from 1954 to 1974, the percentage of Americans rating television's performance from good to excellent rose from 59 percent to 71 percent. Schools., meanwhile, were slipping from 64 to 50 percent. The survey was conducted between the hours of 3 and 5:30 p.m., during which time of course most intelligent housewives and eager students are busy enlightening themselves in front of the tube. Then the hardworking breadwinner comes home.

"Turn off that stupid television and get your homework done, or something," he orders with parental authority. The word filters out to the kitchen, where Momma starts rattling the dirty luncheon dishes as proof of her own productivity.

If the old man times it right, he can get the family occupied just in time to leave the tv clear for the 6 o'clock start of the Warriors championship NBA test. Or Monday night football. Or the Ali Friday night shuffle,. Or whatever.

"Your father needs this kind of diversion more than you need 'Bet Your Life'," the understanding mother will advise the brood. But not too convincingly.

Fortunately for the tv folks, the Roper survey was released just before those new FCC suggestions. The ones whereby celebs and experts offering endorsement for products must first prove they have tried that product, and all others like it, concluding that Brand A is really and truly the best. I don't think the FCC fully comprehends the impact of that ruling.

"Henry, you aren't going to spend another full day taking colored pictures are you," Mrs. Fonda III asks incredulously. "Sure am," says Jane Fonda's favorite daddy. "I wouldn't want folks to take my word on any of this photo stuff until I am satisfied it can really turn out sharp colored prints, and not those damned greenish things I keep getting."

"Well, if you run into Joe Namath out there, please tell him to stop walking around town with those stupid body stockings on," she replies. "It's giving a bad name to the neighborhood."

"Sure will," Henry says, "and I may stop at Anita Bryant's house for another gallon of orange juice. The poor girl is turning into a citroholic, trying to test all those brands."

"I don't see why you don't let Lorne Green solve her," she responds, "after all, they both got themselves into that organgjuice mess." But Henry was already out the door, snapping pictures and guzzling orange juice, all in the interests of believable tv commercials.

If Mr. Roper had conducted his survey throughout San Ramon and the unincorporated environs of Contra Costa County, he might have gotten somewhat different results. Folks there are less inclined to put their trust in Walter Cronkite as they are in Madame Vunderbar. Madame V's crystal ball is rated very high in believability, in the CC hinterland. Which is why the Contra Costa County board of supervisors wants to ban Madame V and her crowd, naturally.

"We can't have our people placing more faith in fortune tellers than they do in their county government," Super James Moriarty was heard to proclaim. "Why not?", asked a small voice from the back of the chambers, but the board had already set the banning act into motion. It won't be all that simple.

"What do we do about a multi-psychic who works with the police in tracking down all those SLA types?", was the county counsel's question. "Don't forget the sheriff's department personal psychic tracked down nine Patty Hearsts just last month," he reminded the board.The ban on fortune tellers and mystics will be referred to the FCC, along with those Henry Fonda commercials and Roper Organization surveys.

Bob Pritchard will be a believer, in another week or two. Having cleared himself of those Livermore city council burdens — including that tireless battle to stop any freeway improvements through Dublin Canyon — Ex-Mayor Bob now heads for the peace and quiet of Manteca. And a new mortuary business. On a downtown Manteca street that doubles as State Route 205. Which is why the business people in Manteca have been fighting like crazy to get the state to build a new freeway bypass, taking all that tourist traffic off Manteca's crowded streets. And will Bob Pritchard vote FOR that Manteca freeway?? - You'd better believe it!

But even the Associated Press is suspect. Take the AP's "Remember When?" file that this column refers to now and then. But no more. The AP writer would have us believe that "John Wayne had his 68th birthday this week, while Perry Como celebrated his 62nd." John Wayne! — 68!! And that nice little Como man getting past 60? Never! Not if you still believe in TV makeup men, and soft lights that can erase 20 years of wrinkles in the flash of a muted violin. Now THAT'S the kind of television all America can faith in. Frankly, Mr. Roper, I think you were asking the wrong kind of questions.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

Shortly after noon on Wednesday a pair of lovely young lassies marched into Maynard Moreland's classroom at the Junction Avenue School in Livermore to the music played by a bandaged drummer and limping flautist.

Between the four of them a quartet of sub teen aged laddies carried tenderly a very special banner. It was, of course, the bicentennial flag marking, we hope, a resurgence of tbe Spirit of '76 in these United States while we observe our 200th birthday next year. I stood in the rear of the room and did not quite hear all of it while one of the lasses, dressed to represent the Statue of Liberty, told us what that flag meant to her.

(Give me your tired and your poor, your huddled masses yearning to be free...)

My mind wandered, impolitely, from the lass's speech to the lines on that statue in New York Harbor written by Emma Lazarus during the 19th century.

Send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me, I lift my lamp beside the golden door.)

Standing at the rear of the room while I waited my turn to speak I wondered what I would say and what these youngsters would believe. Those words in New York Harbor haunted me. Did any youngster believe in them today?

Moments later I was standing before them, my palms sweaty which is always a sign of a severe attack of nerves to me, apologizing for standing them up last December and trying to convince them that there is no more important task in my life than talking with children, particularly about these United States of America and their obvious worth during a period of barely subsiding civil strife and emotional storm.

(Fourscore and seven years ago, our forefathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation...)

Lincoln had said it best, briefly and succinctly at Gettysburg, but I am no Lincoln, only a lonely newspaperman and terribly afraid of saying the wrong thing to children, hoping, in some small way, I could deliver a message of value.

Now I do not remember what I said. I spoke of the day, June 15, 1775, when General George Washington was named commander in chief of the Continental Army and mentioned his lieutenants but did not name them.

(Would the children understand that one of the most competant and greatest, until his disgrace, had been the infamous traitor, Benedict Arnold? I did not think so.)

For a while I talked about the Stamp Acts of 1765, the Committe of Correspondence of 1772 founded by Sam Adams and James Otis and the acts of coercion of 1774.

I mentioned a ragtag army which fought on through the years, not knowing it was beaten nor that it could not win, drivinq by the energy provided by an ideal born at Runnymeade June 15, 1215, but not perfected until the Continental Congress convened Philidelphia in 1776.

Would these kids know about Arnold, Nathanial Green, Horatio Gates, Henry Knox and Frances Marion? Did they teach history today as they did in the Cupertino Union School in 1925? A man could only wonder and then skip Bennington and Brandywine, Bunker Hill and Camden, Freeman's Farm, Germantown, Long Island and King's Mountain.)

We moved through the centuries then to December 7, 1941, and the sudden realizatioln that, while I abhored war, it was my duty to defend these United States I love so dearly. And I wondered if they would understand that while war is wrong there are times when men must stand up and fight for a principle, for his friends, for his country and the green hills, warming sun and way of life which have been good to him?

(...a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.)

Somehow I tried, and God and they know if I succeeded, to tell them that in this great country, and only here, men and women are blessed with a freedom of choice, the right to choose their own path through life.

(Of course choosing your own path demands work and sacrifice. But that was not relevant at the moment. The opportunity is here. That is the important thing. We are what we make ourselves in these United States. And we are better than we would be elsewhere.)

I talked, because I had been asked to, about my beginnings and knew when I surveyed the situation objectively, that in another world, another nation, I would still be a peasant, a tiller of the soil who received little of what he reaped.

"It is a long road from that small farmhouse to our home today," I told them. "I am not rich or famous, but I am working at a task I love and one which I chose to follow when I was a teen age boy. Only in this country are so many of us given that opportunity."

While I talked, I watched them. The girl near the back of the room with the features. A blond lass in the second row from the left, a sandy haired lad in the second row from the right. I wondered if I saw a flicker of cynicism.

Whatever they thought, they were polite and they applauded solidly when I left. A few moments later I was out on the street, wondering how I had been given the grave responsibility of talking about the spirit of '76 to a roomful of our youngsters. Had I said it all?

(...the brave men, living and dead, who gave their lives that the nation of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.)

How had I managed to miss that one.? But Lincoln said it first. And he is a hard act to follow. A man can only say what he believes and do the best he can...

...even if he leaves a room full of corn in his wake.

"THEY'RE HERE!"

by Bernice Bede Osol

For Friday, May 23, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may fumble the ball a few times, but you'll be able to reach a business goal you've been trying to wrap up.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your first ideas won't be your best ones today. Sound them out on one whose opinions you trust first.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't price your goods or services too low today. Don't be greedy. Just be sure you set a true value, fair to all.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may make a change in your social plans that will be disappointing at first. The result of the switch will prove to be a pleasant surprise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A get-together with some of your closest friends will prove much more pleasant than being with casual acquaintances.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The good news you receive today will not be all you had expected. Accept it. Know that something is better than nothing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll be dealing with VIP's today. Don't be disappointed because you don't get everything you want. What you do obtain will be generous.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't delay that do-it-yourself project for the home because you can't afford to complete it now. Get it started. The means will later be available.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Business dealings or commercial acquisitions come naturally to you today, if you handle details personally and don't buy things sight unseen.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Though your mate's suggestions are not on a par with yours today, she deserves an "A" for effort. She's thinking of you first.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Ignore the temptation to "coast" at work today. You're in a good cycle to get things done effectively. It would be a shame to waste it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In a situation where you share an interest, you'll cause your own problems by being indifferent. Your part of the profit will be smaller.

Your Birthday

May 23, 1975

More opportunity than you've been exposed to for a long time will be coming to you this year. You will profit by it if you work hard and not take it for granted.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South's four-spade call was one of those nonvulnerable gambles. He didn't know who could make what, but he did know that four spades wouldn't be hurt.

Actually, it wheeled in. Dummy's king of hearts lost to East's ace at trick one. South ruffed and led the queen of spades. East won, played a second high trump and a second heart was ruffed.

Now South pulled East's last trump, lost a club finesse, but took the rest of the tricks.

East felt that his partner should have bid five hearts. There was a long discussion as to whether or not five hearts could make. The answer is that it wouldn't because West would not be able to lead enough times from his own hand. No one noticed that East could and should have beaten four spades.

All East had to do when he got in with the first high trump was to lead a diamond. A second diamond would be led when he got in the next time. After that bit of brilliant defense East would collect a diamond trick in addition to the three tricks he was bound to make anyway.

CARD SENSE

What do you do now?

A — Bid three spades. Your partner is showing a balanced type hand. He should have two spades and may have three. Anyway this particular jump is not an absolute force.

Deep 'Dogs destroy Cowboys, 8-2

MORAGA - When Dave Baum pitched his way into difficulty during the first inning of the North Coast baseball playoffs yesterday, Alhambra High rushed in DeVallon Harper for instant relief.

Harper, one of the Bay Area's handful of outstanding pitchers, retired three batters with two deliveries.

Conversely, Livermore High's Keith Richardson was rattled around for six runs in the first inning, but the Cowboys couldn't rescue him. There was no one better in the bullpen.

The contrast in depth helped explain the Bulldogs' 8-2 win at St. Mary's College in the first round of the North Coast Section playoffs. That, and Livermore's inexperience.

"Our guys are young, and they haven't been around here before," said Livermore coach Kevin Drake, whose team won three straight at the end of the season to capture the EBAL pennant and a berth in this single-elimination tournament. "They were nervous."

Alhambra will continue its quest for the NCS title Saturday at St. Mary's against either Pleasant Hill or Redwood of Larkspur.

How good are the Bulldogs' chances? Well, baseball scouts agree there are three players on the Alhambra team who will definitely be drafted by major league clubs. Yesterday they hit a combined 1-for-11, and still won by six runs.

Wait til the good players start hitting.

Alhambra raked loser Richardson for four base hits in the first inning yesterday, but all six runs were unearned. The anxious Cowboys committed three errors behind their senior right-hander.

For Richardson, it was his fifth consecutive start, and his fourth in less than two weeks. Weariness was not a problem though, said Drake. "He wasn't tired — he just got hit. Keith was getting his fast ball up, and they were waiting for it. But when he found his curve ball, he got better.

"Any pitcher, when he doesn't have the support behind him .. " Drake's mind wandered to contemplation of five Livermore errors.

One was a muffed ground ball that allowed two of Alhambra's first inning runs. The other, a dropped fly ball, accounted for two more.

"There's no way they should have scored in that first inning," lamented Drake. "We just made foolish mistakes. Today we made some contact at the plate, but our game is pitching and defense. When we don't get it, we don't win."

Alhambra startled everyone by failing to start the highly publicized Harper on the mound. Suffering from recent illness and a split fingernail, the 6-2 195 strong man opened in left field.

The Cowboys jumped on Baum, 5-0 in the Foothill Athletic League, for three quick hits and a 2-0 lead. After he walked Robin Wilkerson to load the bases, Harper answered the wishes of a bevy of scouts by relieving.

On two pitches, he forced Ken Watts into a double play, and Dan Wood into a meek infield out.

Harper returned to the outfield in the next inning, never to pitch again until the top of the seventh. He walked two, but was never in danger of allowing a run.

Livermore banged out seven hits against Baum, including two singles by shortstop Wayne Perry. Rich Palmer, who scratched two infield singles, drove in one of Livermore's first inning runs.

Rusty Self, who doubled and singled twice, sparked the Alhambra offense. John Lucido drove in two runs in the first inning with a single to center field.

Richardson shut off Alhambra's outstanding junior shortstop, Jim Flores, without a hit Flores, who hit .364 this year, was 0-for-4.

Catcher Kirk Ripee, like Flores a good pro prospect, had an infield single in three at bats. Harper was 0-for-4.

Only Roy is sure

Roy Kissin will survive the cut today in the North Coast Valley Division two-mile, and move on to challenge for the state championship in a couple of weeks.

Beyond that, no one's sure how many EBAL track and field athletes will survive in the Divisional finals this afternoon at Dublin High.

The whole thing starts at 3 p.m., with varsity finals in all events, and frosh-soph running event finals.

Kissin is the heavy favorite in the two-mile. But there are not too many more sure things from the EBAL.

Matt Priewe, Kissin's San Ramon teammate, should qualify for next week's North Coast Section championships in the 440, despite a wind-hampered 52.0 qualifying time Wednesday. He is still counting on a dip under the 50 second barrier this season.

Priewe's 440 running mate, Tim O'Donnell, was eliminated in the trials, and will be limited to a leg in the Wolves' mile relay. San Ramon ran a good 3:29.3, but Priewe says the Wolves should shave six more seconds off that time.

Granada's Dan King will make a bid to qualify for the Section meet in the 440 and 220, after running 52.1 and 23.3.

Andy Finn is a strong choice in the high jump if he can come anywhere near his Amador Valley High School record of 6-6.

Two Gladiators ink pro baseball pacts

Gary Medeiros and Mike Antone, members of Chabot College's Golden Gate Conference championship baseball team have signed professional contracts.

Medeiros, a catcher, was signed by the Oakland A's, Antone, by the Minnesota Twins. Both were named to the all-GGC team the past two seasons, and were picked for Chabot's Team of the Decade.

Medeiros will spend the rest of this month with the A's Modesto team in the California League, then go to Boise of the Northwest Rookie League.

Medeiros was drafted in the second round of the free agent draft by the World Champion A's. He hit .330 this season.

Antone, who hit .357, will spend three weeks in Tampa in the Twins' Rookie League, then report to Elizbethton, Tenn. of the Appalachian League. Antone was originally drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals after his first year at Chabot.

"I think playing at Chabot has really helped prepare for this," Antone said. "Mr. Wellman (Chabot baseball coach Gene Wellman) has done more than any man alive for me. He taught me a lot, and not just about baseball."

The Chabot coach assisted both players in negotiating their professional contracts.

In NCS track

Stohr makes a profit

MORAGA - Diana Stohr and Kathy Costello stole the show yesterday at the North Coast Section II Girls Track Trials held at Campolindo High School.

The top eight qualifiers in each event advanced to the finals to be held a week from Saturday at Diablo Valley College in Pleasant Hill.

Costello and Stohr each captured a trio of events on the afternoon in which many outstanding times were recorded.

Costello, of Pleasant Hill High, breezed to first place in the 880 with a time of 2:18.9 to outdistance Nancy Rebello of Santa Maria. Costello returned to take an even more convincing victory in the mile run with a 5:04.0 clocking.

Costello anchored the Rams 880 sprint medley relay team, which won the first heat in 1:50.0. That time marked the fastest of all qualifiers on the day.

Granada Stohr anchored two victorious relay teams and booked her lifetime best clocking in the 440 as she turned in a 59.3 showing to lead all qualifiers.

Stohr teamed up with Jill Eyler, Karen Roberts and Cathy Honour as the Matadors won the second heat of the 440 relay in a time of 50.8. Tamalpais logged the fastest qualifying time as they won the first heat in 49.8.

That same Granada foursome outdueled Berkeley in the second heat of the 880 sprint medley relay. Stohr, who received the baton one step ahead of the Yellowjackets' Vivian Staggers and extended that lead to three yards at the finish. Granada was timed in 1:51.5 while the 'Jackets were one tenth back.

Monica Rochin, Granada's talented discus thrower, won her specialty as she twirled the platter 120-9. That throw marked the best recorded in the North Coast II thus far this season.

Lisa Bee, of San Ramon, who held the previous NCS II best in the discus was a dismal third with a toss of 109-10. Monte Vista's Carol Dolsby threw a career best 103-9 to place seventh.

Amador High's Julie Fleenor turned in a lifetime best of 37-8½ to place third in a tough shot put field. Cheryl Common of Granada tossed the shot 36-7, good enough for sixth place.

Although she did not perform up to par, the Mats Honour placed second in the long jump with a leap 17-0. Honour , along with the rest of the field was hampered by the poor jumping conditions on the Cougar track.

The antiquated runway created havoc in a meet of such high caliber.

Honour returned moments later to place second in the second heat of the 80-yard low hurdles. Cathy was clocked in 11.6, 1/10 behind Michelle Liessman of Terra Linda who won the heat.

Monte Vista's Corrine Oldroyd placed third in the third heat of the 80 lows with 11.7 clocking. Oldroyd's time was eighth on the list of qualifiers.

Paula Ng, Lifermore's freshman sensation, showed little signs of her injured leg as she qualified in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

Ng, who had her cast removed just two weeks ago, booked a 26.7 time in the 220, good enough for the runner-up position in second heat.

Despite problems of leaving the blocks due to her injured foot, Paula placed second in heat three of the 100. Ng will have her work cut out for her in the finals however as Marie Nickson of Berkeley booked a fleet 10.7 timing as she captured the first heat.

Gwen Hall of Tamalpais recorded a 10.9 showing as she was tops in the second heat.

Karen Daley of Granada ran to a lifetime best of 5:28.8 to no avail as she placed ninth in the mile.

Another Matador Rene Contratto , placed second in the second running.

Times may improve in the NCS meet as DVC's tartan running surface may provide the basis for a faster pace.

— Steve Mona

Four go to Sr. golf

Albert Jelusich fired a net score of 71 at Castlewood Country Club's Valley Course yesterday morning to lead qualifiers into the Northern California Golf Association's Senior Championships.

The eight-handicapper shot a gross of 79 in the Presidents Flight (under-12 handicaps) as four of 14 entrants qualified.

Frank Saito shot a net 73 off his 12 handicap to narrowly avoid a bottleneck for the final two qualifying spots.

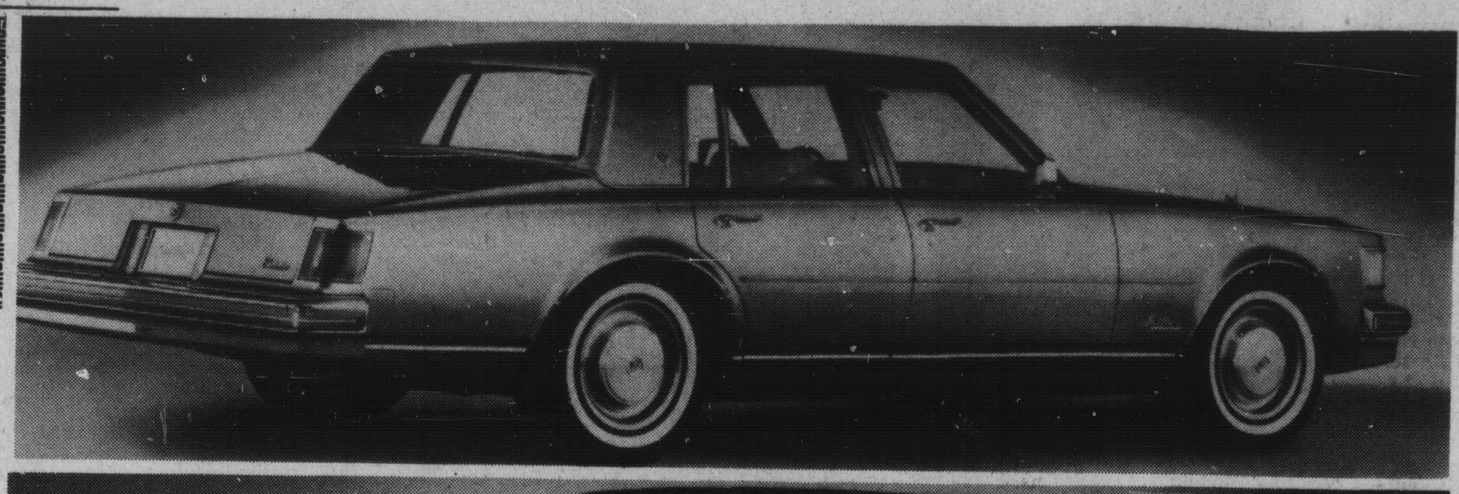
NIRVHANA, the lovely belly dancer, will perform in the grand ballroom of the San Francisco Ramada Inn at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, May 24. The affair is formal and the cost is $20 per couple. A variety show is included as part of the lavish evening. If you're planning a party and would like the graceful Nirvhana to perform as a special attraction call 443-6552. The same telephone number will also get you information on dance lessons.

LIVERMORE SAW & MOWER - Livermore is located at 2345 Third Street. The plant has recently been expanded. 10 years ago John Pidoli started sharpening saws in his spare time. He soon had so much business he set up shop and started a whole new career for himself. Livermore Saw & Mower sell, service and sharpen mowers, saws, scissors and most garden tools. Gary Thompkins, Steve Sandoval and Paul Dixon work with John at the new stand where Chamber Corral Club members recently brought their scissors and ribbon to celebrate an official opening.

Although FOTO FACETS - Livermore has completed its 2nd Anniversary promotion, I'd like to mention that Rich and Beverly Paulson are the new managers of the store which is located at 803 Rincon Ave. in the Livermore Shopping Center. Chamberites Don Seculo and Charlie Brown joined with MarJo McGowan, Maid of Livermore, to help Beverly Paulson kick off the big event.

KEN'S CAMERAS - Livermore provides us with the mystery of the week. The whole thing might not be worth the attention of Philo Vance or Miss Marple, the pleasant gentleman in the photo was the big winner of the 'guess how many matchbooks in the jar' contest at 1380 Railroad Avenue in the Livermore Square Shopping Center. Seems everyone was so excited about winning and getting a photo taken that they all forgot to get the luck winners name. He has the cash in hand, however, so everyone came out a big winner during the Squar's 'Lucky 7 Anniversary promotion.



A crowd pleaser

Reflecting the design theme of a contemporary classic, the new Cadillac Seville is distinctive yet dignified in exterior appearance. The bold, but refined front graphics are unmistakably Cadillac, highlighted by the new cross-hatch grille design and rectangular head lamps. The Seville is powered by a new 5.7 Litre (350 cubic inch displacement) electronically fuel injected V-8 engine. The simple, uncluttered styling approach to the rear reflects the continuity of the Seville design theme. The tail lamps wrap around the rear corners and incorporate the side marker lamps and side and rear reflexes. To see the Seville visit LEW DOTY CADILLAC, 22196 Mission Blvd., Hayward, Southern Alameda County's only authorized Cadillac dealer.

Motor talk

Auto firms may expand lines

General Motors making motorcycles? Ford turning out snowmobiles? Chrysler and American Motors producing golf carts? The big companies have no plans for getting into these areas right now. but the future is uncertain.

Motor Magazine's Detroit Editor Bob Lund includes in the current issue of the mechanic's trade journal a note that the major car manufacturers may very well go into the above areas if the recreational vehicle business doesn't get better.

The auto companies have a lot of man and money power tied up in manufacturing facilities and machine tools to produce RVs. Sales had started to turn up after hitting bottom last year, but with the threat of a hefty gas tax to discourage non-essential driving, auto makers admit that the outlook is not favorable.

Ford and Chrysler, who were planning new lines of RVs, have put the products on a temporary hold until they can take a new reading on the market this summer.

Ford is going to do away with the ceiling mounted shoulder strap on its big cars. Probably on the lower priced cars, too, but not immediately on the cheaper ones. The company has devised a shouldr strap mounted to the seat back that meets all government safety requirements.

American Motors has two new cars coming as follow-ups to Pacer. One is a Pacer wagon planned for next year, the other a slightly smaller one for 1977 sale.

Chrysler is testing a dashboard mounted device — actually an advanced version of a vacuum gauge — that gives the driver digital readouts on (1) miles he is getting per gallon, (2) amount of fuel left in the tank, (3) an estimate — with small plus or minus factor — of how many miles the car can travel before the fuel supply is gone.

Although car makers will continue to press and press hard for a moratorium on new government standards on cars, Detroit is going to adopt a new strategy in its day to day dealings with government and its agencies.

Washington staff people on car company payrolls have been told to avoid arguing with government officials. Presently, Detroit's version the plan says its representatives will "speak softly and carry a big s tack of disputing data," and let it go at that, as one liaison man puts it.

Detroit executives, who should know better, are peddling a head in the sand argument to prove cars are a better buy today than they were 20 years ago.

The argument goes like this: Where it used to take an average worker just over five months of his annual income to pay for a car 20 years ago. it takes just over four months of his annual income now, for a new '75.

There's nothing wrong with those mathematics, but the fact is that most car buyers have fewer dollars to spend on automobiles because the price of everything else is up. You can't convince people they have money to spend on cars if they look at the bank account and the money isn't there.

* * *

Chrysler has apparently decided to go ahead with a new line of luxury compacts for this fall, but with two new body styles instead of four.

Drivers prefer tax hike

If American drivers had to choose between gasoline rationing that would reduce driving by 20 per cent or accept a 10-cents-a-gallon gas tax hike, 48 per cent would prefer the tax, says the Highway Users Federation. A survey indicated that only 42 per cent would prefer rationing.

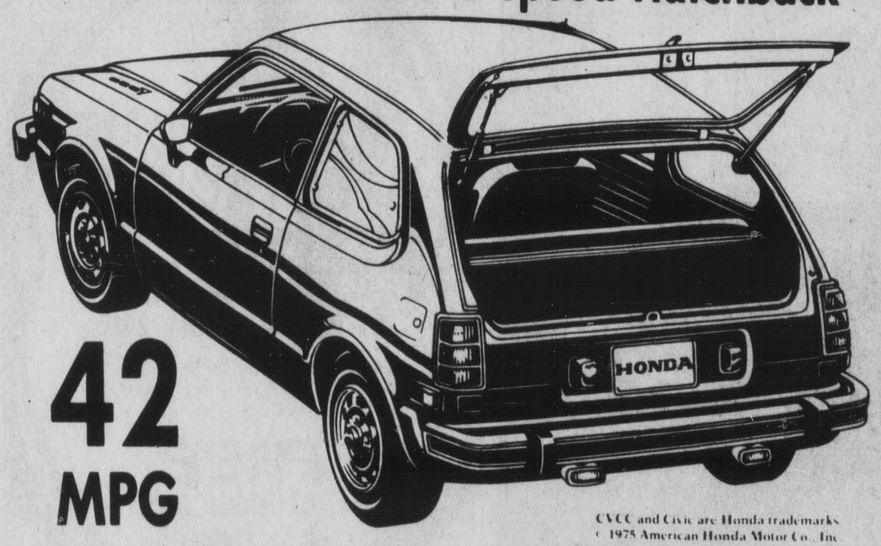
Honda Civic CVCC 5-Speed Hatchback



42 MPG

CVCC and Civic are Honda trademarks
© 1975 American Honda Motor Co., Inc.

The 1975 Honda Civic CVCC. You can take it to the gas station or the supermarket and not be disappointed.
In EPA lab tests for highway driving, the 5-speed Civic got 42 miles per gallon. The best mileage performance for any car sold in the U.S.
Yet, we didn't sacrifice roominess for economy. The Civic seats four adults. It also holds a lot of groceries, or luggage, or sporting gear, or you-name-it. (And that's with the rear seat up. Fold it down and there's even more carrying space.)

The secret behind this kind of performance is in the way the Civic was designed. We gave it a shorter profile so its compact size would be ideal for today's life-styles.
And finally, we gave it an engine that doesn't need a catalytic converter, that runs on regular, low-lead or no-lead gas: The Honda CVCC Advanced Stratified Charge Engine.
All in all, it's one car that no matter where you go, you won't mind saying those three little words: "Fill 'er up."

Volkswagen sports limited edition Dasher GT

Eye-catching silver metallic paint, contrasting black trim, wide alloy wheels, a special steering wheel, special seats and extra gauges are among the features of the new, limited edition VW Dasher GT.

On display at Volkswagen dealers, the Dasher GT is a two-door, 5-seat sports coupe that rides on wide steel-belted radial tires, has a test track top speed of about 100 mph and still delivers 35 miles per gallon on the highway, according to Environmental Protection Agency figures.

"The Dasher GT is a machine that will appeal to those who want sports car performance in a functional, easy-to-live with package," according to a VW spokesman.

"It has sporty styling and performance to match. Its overhead cam engine will move it from zero to 60 mph in just 12 seconds. And the power assisted front disc brakes, combined with rack and pinion steering, a crisp four-speed all-synchro transmission and independent front suspension provide a level of handling usually associated only with all-out sports cars. It has to be driven to be believed," he added.

Instrumentation in the Dasher GT includes a tachometer, a speedometer with resettable trip odometer that rallyists will find useful and a clock. The steering wheel has a wide padded hub and the seats are a "non-skid" black and white check fabric with black leatherette trim. An under-the-dash console provides a handy place for small items.

The secret of the Dasher GT's economy and performance is the car's relatively light weight — far less than other luxury cars. The modified wedge profile reflects extensive testing in VW's wind tunnel to reduce wind noise and help keep windows clean.

A low hood line — and easy access to spark plugs, points and other components — is achieved by tipping the engine 20 degrees to the right. Like all 1975 VWs, the Dasher GT is covered by the Security Blanket plan, including a 12-month, 20,000-mile warranty and a 24-month, 24,000-mile warranty on internal engine and transmission components.

Among the technical innovations in the GT is a disc brake pad wear indicator. When linings become worn, a "bump" machined into the disc sets up a tell-tale vibration that is felt in the brake pedal.

The front suspension geometry is designed to keep the car tracking straight when braking on surfaces with uneven friction, such as patches of ice or sand.

Reclining front seats are standard as are an electric rear window defogger. Air conditioning is among the options.

In addition to the Dasher GT, dealers have the full VW line on display — Beetles, Rabbits, Buses and Sciroccos.

Water expert Banks resigns as consultant to state units

Lesher News Bureau

CONCORD - Consulting engineer Harvey O. Banks reveals that he has resigned a temporary consulting position with the Association of State Water Project Agencies, an organization of water users, including Southern California agencies.

He told the Contra Costa Water District directors that he had given the association 10 days' notice of his resignation intent.

Banks had notified the board on April 30 that he had been retained by the association to help develop Delta protection legislation in regards to the federal Central Valley Project and the State Water Project.

He said it was his understanding that the study would be in "the best interests of the Delta and Suisun Marsh. I hoped to be successful in creating greater understanding in Southern California of problems of the Delta."

He added that sole role as he understood it, was to work on "remedial legislation to enhance and protect the Delta.

Banks, a former director of the state Department of Water Resources, did not reveal publically why he was severing his consulting relationship with the Association of State Water Project Agencies.

But Lesher Newspapers has learned that it stemmed from information sent to several people and organizations by the association which has been seeking to get the proposed Peripheral Canal under construction.

On May 16, Daniel J. Blackburn, executive director of the association announced that Banks had been retained "to assist and advise in the preparation of draft federal legislation to provide Delta protection and federal participation in a joint Peripheral Canal project.

It was the second part of that announcement, concerning the canal, that led to Banks' decision to resign, Lesher Newspapers has learned.

The Peripheral Canal is a water diversion plan that would carry Sacramento River water around the Delta, from near Hood to pumping plants in the southern Delta.

The 43-mile unlined canal would be 300 to 400 feet wide and 20 to 30 feet deep.

The water district has been seeking with Banks' help to develop federal legislation that would "protect and enhance the Delta" to go with the so-called Delta Decision that applies to state projects, but which is now being attacked in court by some southern California water districts.

Most other political entities in Contra Costa County have opposed the Peripheral Canal project on the grounds it would set up massive fresh water diversions and would do "irreparable harm" to the Delta.

In addition to serving as a consultant to the Contra Costa Water District, Banks also holds a consulting post with East Bay Municipal Utility District and has, at times, served as a consultant to the state Department of Water Resources.

Ironically, Banks made his announcement, severing relations with the Association of State Water Projects Agencies a short time after the new director of DWR Ron Robie, appeared before the CCWD directors to outline his thoughts regarding water problems of the state.

John DeVito, general manager of the water district, later said he saw similarities between the philosophies of Banks and Robies.

Banks served as director from 1955 to 1961. Since that time his successors prior to Robie have pushed hard to gain approval for massive water diversions from the Delta to Southern California. Most vocal of this group was William R. Gianelli, who at one time called Contra Costa critics of his plans, "Chicken Little Emotionalists."

Robie has ordered delay of Peripheral Canal construction for nearly two years so that more studies can be made regarding water needs of Southern California and protection of Delta water quality.

Gas saver device

At a time when gasoline prices are higher, Toyota equips its cars with lockable gas caps to protect the precious fuel. The chrome cap is standard on all of Toyota's 1975 passenger car models. As pretty Cindy Starbuck demonstrates zere, the vehicle ignition key locks and unlocks the cap. The key is reversible so there's no "wrong way" to insert it. Owners, however, have the option of leaving the cap unlocked.
